MT. VERNON MARSHAL KILLS MAN

GEORGE W. GENTRY IS SHOT TO DEATH WHEN HE SLAPS THE OFFICER IN FACE.

Geo. W. Gentry, a prominent lumber man of Mt. Vernon, was shot twice and killed there Thursday by Town Marshal E. R. Ferguson. The affair occurred in the heart of the town and caused much excitement.

A short time ago while entry was out of the city, the Marshal arrested this boy for a trivial offense.

Thursday they met and the Marshal asked entry for his city taxes. Gentry said to have told the Marshal that he would have to wait, adding, "I don't like you any way. My wife tells me you arrested my boy for nothing while I was away."

Ferguson is said to have replied that that was a lie, whereupon Gentry struck the Marshal in the face. Ferguson then pulled his pistol and fired at Gentry twice, both bullets passing through his body, one penetrating the abdomen.

Gentry walked off and sat down, but it could be seen he was mortally hurt, and a physician was speedily summoned. He died six hours, and then died.

The Marshal was placed under guard by other officials. He is a man about 37 years of age, while Gentry was a man about 50, and leaves a wife and five children.

Prof. E. L. Grubbs and Miss Fannie Spears began the Moreland public school Monday with an attendance of 52 in spite of the early date, blackberry picking, tobacco hoarding and typhoid fever. Prof. Grubbs will try to graduate a class of six girls and two boys during the coming year for the Stanford and Hustonville High Schools.

Miss Agnes McCord began teaching at McCormack's, Miss Mary J. Hubbard at Moore's, Miss Nell Ellis at Carter's and Mr. Harvey Hopkins at Snodgrass's.

Miss Ethel Clarkson began teaching at Alletton July 4. The other Boyle county schools do not open till Aug. 1.

The infant of Mr. and Mrs. George Sinkhorn died Sunday and was buried Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Fox and Miss Elizabeth Fox spent the day with their daughters, Mrs. E. L. Grubbs and Mrs. James Cloyd Sunday.

Eight additions were made to the Christian church during the late meeting here. They were all children between the ages of eight and 12 years.

Mrs. S. E. Rose and daughter, Mary Elizabeth, of Louisville, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clint Helm.

Rev. John Jones, of Bellevue, who is visiting here with his wife and baby, preached at the Baptist church Sunday morning instead of Bro. Summers.

Mr. H. Clay Bottom bought a good bunch of cattle in Lincoln last week.

Presbyterians Want Pastor

REV. R. A. WHITE, OF WEST VIRGINIA, IS CALLED.

At the congregational meeting of the Presbyterian church Sunday morning, a call was issued to the Rev. R. A. White, of Garrardtown, West Virginia, to the pastorate. It is not known yet whether he will accept, but the call was a unanimous one, and the members hope that he will, or the church has been without a pastor for over a year.

Dr. White preached here some time ago and pleased everyone. He is a man of middle age, unmarried and has been the pastor of the church at Garrardtown for the past 15 years.

The salary tendered Dr. White is $1,200 a year.

Criminal Docket

TO BE TAKEN UP AT SPECIAL COURT TERM MONDAY

The special term of the Lincoln circuit court to try criminal cases only, will begin here Monday. There is a large amount of business on hand, several murder cases being on the docket. There are also a number of cases for violation of the local option law.

Judge Saufley got his first call from Gov. Willson under the new special judge act Thursday, and will go to Magoffin county in August to hold a special term of court. The attorneys there petitioned the Governor to send Judge Saufley there, as he has held court there before and is very popular.

Big Barn Burns

WILL HESTER SUSTAINS HEAVY LOSS BY FLAMES.

The large stock barn belonging to Will Hester on the Hubble Hester, on the Hubble pike, about two miles from town, burned down Thursday afternoon, about 4 o'clock. Little boys playing about the barn are supposed to have set fire to it.

The barn contained a lot of hay, corn and farming implements and the loss is estimated at $1,200.

Many of the timbers used in the construction of the barn were taken from the old Rush Branch church.

Big Improvements

MADE AT J. H. BAUGHMAN & CO.'S FLOUR MILL.

Having installed some of the latest improved milling machines, J. H. Baughman & Co.'s big mill started up again Thursday morning after having been idle since May 18. During that time millwrights, representing the Nordyke-Marmon Company, of Indianapolis, have been tearing out most of the old flour-making machinery, and installing the new, which will enable the plant to produce a much higher grade of flour and greatly increase its capacity. The new machinery represents an outlay of about $3,000, but the milling company feels that nothing is too good for its patrons and determined that they shall have the best.

FARED WELL AT FAIR.

At the Richmond fair yesterday and the day before, Wray & Walker, of this city, took the following awards on Sallie Brook, their crack three-year-old filly, and Carroll Preston, the great four-year-old stallion:

Best Mare or Gelding, 3 and under 4—Sallie Brook, first.

Best Harness Stallion, 4 years and over—Carroll Preston.

Sallie Brook also won two roadster stakes for 3-year-olds.

A WILD RAGING BLIZZARD

brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and la grippe—that terror of winter and spring. Its danger signals are "stuffed up" nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head, and a throat-grinding cough. When grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn, of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being laid up three weeks with grip." For sore lungs, hemorrhages, coughs, colds, whooping cough, bronchitis, asthma, it's supreme. 50c, $1. Guaranteed by G. L. Peay.

IN THE OLD PALMETTO STATE

MR. AND MRS. J. L. BUTLER WRITE INTERESTINGLY OF SOUTHERN SCENES.

Columbia, S. C., July 20.

Thinking perhaps our old Kentucky would appreciate a letter from us, we take this medium of address through the columns of the Interior Journal, as no doubt this means will reach them all. We believe the I. J. is read by everyone in Lincoln county as well as hundreds of others. Our home folks send us the I. J. each week and we eagerly peruse each line it contains even every advertisement, something we did not always do when at home. We left the little city of McKinney on the 23rd of March, stopping over in Somerset for a short stay with our sister Mrs. Wm. Adams.

Leaving there at 1 A. M., on the 26th, we had a nice journey all the way, enjoying the varied scenery, including that of river, mountain and plain. We made time connection, changing at Oakdale, Knoxville and Asheville, and arriving in Columbia on Easter Sunday at 6 A. M. Columbia the beautiful capital of South Carolina, is a nice little city of thirty thousand population. It is an ideal educational center, as well as a prominent railroad center. Several railroads run into and have headquarters here, among them are the Southern railway, The Atlantic Coast Line railway, The Seaboard Air Line railway, The C. & A. and the N. & E. We also have excellent street railway service, connecting the city with all the beautiful suburban towns.

The soil of this country is very sandy, and in one hour after a hard rain one would never recognize the fact that it had rained, from the appearance of the soil. And judging from this, we are made to believe the statement of generations past, that this country was at one time the bottom of the sea. The railroads through here need no ballast, other than the sand, this being sufficient. The railroad ties are made of pine, that being something unknown in Kentucky. Pine timber seems to be used principally for all building purposes here. There are extensive pine forests here, numbers of trees growing to the height of one hundred feet with not a branch from the ground to within a few feet of the top.

This is quite a cotton producing region, and Columbia is the possession of one of the largest cotton mills in the South. In driving through the country a few days since, we noticed acres of this plant in bloom. This is today the pride of the village and the talk of the entire community.

The South District Association of Baptist churches will hold their annual session with the Hustonville Baptist church, August 23 and 24. The Baptist church at Hustonville will continue its regular services during the summer months. Services each first and third Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Your attendance solicited. Subject for Sunday, August 7, at 11 a. m., "Before Church Membership," text, Acts 2:38-39. Sunday evening subject, "The Wrestling Match."

Miss Block Boile is visiting Lexington friends and relatives.

Miss Sue Bagby, of Danville, was the guest last week of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Speed.

The lady members of the Christian church evidence much more business ability in church affairs than the men. They are arranging to have a concrete sidewalk laid in front of the church lot, a much needed improvement.

Show us even a small business transaction the men have accomplished in the past year.

A boy driving a calf and two hogs passing up Main street last week, sold the hogs to Mr. Josiah Bishop for $4.50. Later the hogs proved to belong to Dr. Barker, but the boy who gave his name as Wilcher, had gone and cannot be located.

Warren, the bright and promising son of Prof. R. S. Eubanks, was in our city last week in the interest of the Southern School Journal and the candidacy of his father for state superintendent of schools.

Tom Hunt, of Columbia, spent last week here looking after live stock.

The Auxiliary to the C. W. B. M. met at the Christian church Thursday evening with a good attendance. Mrs. Minnie Robinson, as leader had a splendid program, which was carried out in her usual impressive manner. Mrs. John Allan read the Scripture

BUILDING BOOM HITS HUSTONVILLE

TWO HANDSOME RESIDENCES TO BE ERECTED SOON—NEWS IN THE WEST END.

Hustonville, July 21.

Dr. Childress bought a very desirable building lot on Danville avenue last week and will begin the erection of a handsome home as soon as the ordered material arrives.

Mr. Jess Carpenter has the plans and specifications for a handsome home to be built on his lot near the Wheeler Emporium on Main street. Watch us grow.

Mr. Joe Conway and little son, Reid, arrived Sunday from Wichita, Kansas, for a few weeks' vacation with Mrs. Samuel Held and Miss Anna Reid.

Miss Ellen Powers, having tired of Lancaster, has opened her dressmaking rooms in the Carpenter building.

Mr. J. B. Monaker, one of the best sheep raisers and handlers in this vicinity, whose lambs and ewes are always ready sale at the highest prices, sold Sandidge Bros., 50 ewes this week at $6.

The game of ball Saturday at Moreland between Hustonville and Moreland, resulted in a tie game and will be played off next Saturday on the Hustonville grounds and a large crowd is expected.

Will Cabell and family, of Lebanon, are spending this week with his mother, Mrs. Fannie Cabell, on West Main street.

Mrs. Jesse P. Rife is suffering with a severe case of mumps that seems to be epidemic in that community.

Lucien Young, having resigned his position as bookkeeper for the Hustonville Milling Company, has accepted a similar position with the Peoples Bank here.

Mrs. Walter Vanarsdale, of Boyle county, spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Camnitz.

Myers & Vaughn shipped one car of nice butcher cattle, 10 and one double deck car of lambs at 5 1-2c this week.

Wheat throughout this part of Lincoln county is badly damaged by the continued rains all this month.

Miss Ruth Culbertson, of Covington, was the guest last week of Miss Edna Camnitz.

Mrs. Hill Spedens, of Louisville, is visiting her father, Dr. Ed. Alcorn and family.

Mrs. James H. Taylor, of Pittsburg, Pa., was visiting relatives here last week.

Born, on Sunday, the 17th, to the wife of T. J. Denham, of Jumbo, a fine ten pound son, T. J. Jr., who is today the pride of the village and the talk of the entire community.

JURY ACQUITS VENDORS OF NEAR-BEER DRINKS

ON GROUND THAT MALT MEAD, ETC., IS NOT INTOXICATING; TWO MCKINNEY CASES.

That Malt mead, cream of hops and other near-beer drinks are not intoxicating and vendors of same cannot be prosecuted under the local option law was the opinion in two cases before County Judge Bailey here Thursday. Warrants were sworn out against Pres Sluder and George Alford, of McKinney, charging them with selling intoxicating drinks without a license. Attorney George D. Florence defended, with Attorney W. S. Eurch, in the prosecution.

Both cases were tried before Judge Bailey, but the case against Alford went out on peremptory instructions from the court, because it was not proven that Lincoln county was dry under the local option law.

The jury found for Sluder in the other case, on the ground that such drinks as malt mead, cream of hops, etc., containing but two per cent. of alcohol are not intoxicating. A number of witnesses were introduced, who testified that had drank the beverages and had not been made drunk.

Family Reunion

NEWLAND FAMILY ENJOY A DAY AT BROWN SPRINGS.

The Newland families of this county, Garrard and Rockcastle, met in family reunion at Brown Springs, near Crab Orchard yesterday and spent a most enjoyable day. About 50 of the name were present and the happy hours were spent in talking of old times, tracing relationships and many other things of interest to them. The good wives of the families had each prepared a sumptuous lunch, which was spread beneath the shade of giant oaks and elms and enjoyed to the fullest extent. Withal, it was a happy gathering and one long to be remembered by those who were present.

The bunch of Mercer county citizens who went through here last week in an automobile to Crab Orchard have a deal on to buy that celebrated resort. In the party were Col. D. L. Moore, Judge John W. Hughes, W. J. Poter, and Rodman Keenon. They spent some time looking over the place, and are said to have taken an option at $30,000 for the springs hotel and $3,000 for the springs.

It is proposed to buy the property, organize a stock company with a capitalization of $100,000, using $50,000 in and make of it one of the largest improving the buildings and grounds, and make of it one of the largest health resort in the South.

Crab Orchard is one of the oldest health resorts in the South, and the buildings are commodious and large enough to accommodate several hundred guests.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK.

A dispatch from Washington says: Senator Bradley has recommended to the department that following Kentucky banks be made postal saving depositories: Citizens' National of Danville, Citizens' National of Lancaster, United States National of Owensboro, Louisville National Bank Company, of Louisville; State State National of Frankfort; Lexington City National, of Lexington, and Citizens' National of Lebanon.

SAVED AT DEATH'S DOOR.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds, growing weaker daily. Virtually liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine—Electric Bitters—cured me. I regained the 40 pounds lost and now am well and strong. Little Iva Stotts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Stotts, of Campbell, died Friday as the result of pistol wounds accidentally inflicted by Robert Ferguson her four-year-old cousin. While playing with a revolver, it was exploded and the charge passed just behind the eyes of the little girl. She had been lingering since the first of July. The interment took place in Mt. Olivet cemetery in Garrard county.

Kings Mountain.

Kings Mountain, July 21.

Miss Grace Thompson is visiting her grandfather at Woodstock.

Mrs. Amanda Griffin, of Virginia, is visiting friends and relatives here.

Miss Bell Johnson who has been visiting here has gone to Indiana.

The eighteen months old child of Hub Jenkins died and was buried last at Pleasant Point.

There is quite a lot of sickness among the children of this vicinity.

Mrs. Craig Butts, of Somerset is visiting here.

Miss Jennie Ealy, of Stanford, visited relatives here and at Eubanks.

Herschel and Aubrey Gilliland visited their grandfather Mr. J. B. Hooch at Stanford.

Dave Singleton sold a plug horse to Walter Carmon for $60.

The farmers of this neighborhood are very much in the weeds on account of the continued rain.

Miss Lydia McKee has returned from the E. K. S. N.

Miss Pauline and Euphemia Taylor have gone to Cincinnati to find work.

The South Kentucky Association will hold a Sunday school union and Deacons meeting at Pleasant Point July 30 and 31. An able program has been gotten out and will be discussed by able men. Everybody invited.

For three years more Fulton is to remain in the ranks of the long list of "dry" towns in Kentucky at the close of the most weird campaign in the history of this section, ending Thursday with the local option force victorious by the majority of 17 votes.

Carrollton voted "wet" by a majority of 84. The "drys" put up a strong fight, but could not stem the tide. Carrollton has had high license for years. The county of Carroll, outside of the city of Carrollton, gave a majority of 734 for local option.

NOTICE.

Those desiring to bid on making earth fill and concrete wall at the new bridge over Hanging Fork Creek at J. S. Murphy's, will find specifications at the McKinney Deposit Bank or at my office, J. P. Bailey, Judge L. C. C.

WHY SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA

Scientists are now agreed that the eczema germs are lodged not in the outer skin or epidermis but in the inner skin. Hence a penetrating liquid is required not an outward salve that clogs the pores. We recommend to all eczema patients the standard prescription Oil of Wintergreen as compounded in liquid form known as D. D. D. Prescription. A trial bottle of this D. D. D. Prescription, at only 25 cents will instantly relieve the itch. We have sold and recommended this remedy for years and know of wonderful cures from its use. We recommend it to our patrons. The Lexington Leader and other Republican papers are claiming that Taft made good during the closing days of the congressional session. But just listen to what Senator L. L. Bristow, of Kansas, a leader of the insurgent republicans, says:

"There never had been a time in American history when a greater responsibility rested on the average citizen than to-day. The country has never faced problems more perplexing. The fundamental question to be determined, was whether this government is administered for the average man or for the benefit of special privileges."

"The gigantic monopolies of this day, have representatives in the halls of Congress whose sole purpose is to protect their interests and to keep open the opportunity they now have to plunder the American public. This was forcibly demonstrated in the tariff fight a year ago.

"The republican party in its national conference declared for a revision of the tariff, maintaining the principle of protection, and further stated that duties should be based upon the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad plus a reasonable profit to the home manufacturer."

"Upon that platform the party won the fight. I believe that nine-tenths of the republicans throughout the land expected the pledge to be carried out in good faith. This I believe would have been done had it not been for the perfidy and selfishness of certain designing legislators who were more desirous of favoring special interests than of promoting the welfare of the land. Under the leadership of these men instead of revising the tariff, as was promised, duties were fixed not with a view of protecting legitimate American industries or of securing revenue for government, but for the purpose of promoting financial interests of certain individuals or concerns."

May Organize League

HARRDSBURG FANS ASK STAN-FORD TO GET IN GAME

The fans of Harrodsburg are trying to organize the Central Kentucky Amateur Base Ball League, which was proposed some months ago at the beginning of the fall season. They propose to have it made of our four teams representing Harrodsburg, Hustonville, Lancaster and Stanford, two games a week to be played by each club, one at home and one abroad.

Messrs. W. L. Voorhies, D. Lee Currey, J. Hal Grimes and Ben Casey Allison, of Harrodsburg, made a round of the three other towns desired in the league, this week and talked with some of the fans. It is probably that a meeting of representatives of the four towns will be held at Danville in a few days to talk over prospects.

Here, they were told that while the ball team had disbanded when school was out, a team could probably be gotten together if the league was organized. It is to be understood and agreed that each town in the league shall use no player but a bona fide resident of the town and no salaried players from outside shall be employed.

ITCHING ECZEMA WASHED AWAY

Is it worth 25 cents to you to stop that awful, agonizing itch? Surely you will spend 25 cents on your druggist's recommendation, to cool and heal and soothe that terrible itching eruption? By arrangement with the D. D. D. Laboratories of Chicago we are able to make a special offer of a 25-cent bottle of their oil of wintergreen compound known as D. D. D. prescription. Call or write or telephone to Shugars & Tanner. We absolutely know that the itch is stopped at once by D. D. D. prescription and the cures all seem to be permanent.

Dawson Barnett, Rowland Street,
Stanford, Ky., says: "Some time ago
I had a severe fall and this, together with the jarring to which I am subject in my work, brought on kidney trouble. For several days I could hardly get about on account of the pains in my back. I also noticed that the passages of the kidney secretions were very irregular especially at night I decided to cure this trouble before it became chronic and as I knew Doan's Kidney Pills to be good for such complaints, I procured a box at

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, PIMPLES AND DANDRUFF.

We desire to say that when we took the agency for Zemo we were convinced that it was a valuable remedy for Eczema, pimples and dandruff. Yet, we must frankly admit that Zemo has far exceeded our expectations as a treatment for skin diseases. We are pleased to state that we shall continue the agency as Zemo has given splendid results wherever recommended.
Our customers like Zemo, too, because it is a clean vegetable liquid for external use.

Zemo effects its cures by drawing to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the disease, leaving the skin clear and healthy.
does not soil the clothing or linen writes Mrs. R. E. Mercer, of Frozen Camp, W. Va.

"I have found no medicine equal to Cardui.
I had suffered for about four years. Would have headache for a week at a time, until I would be nearly crazy. I took Car-dual and now I never have the headache any more."

It's not safe to trust to

The Island of REGENERATION

By CYRUS TOWNSEND
Illustrations by RAY WATERS

Copyright, 1909, by the Chapman. Copyright in Great Britain

CHAPTER I.—A young woman, fastidious on a lonely island, finds a solitary inhabitant, a young white man, dressed like a savage, and not able to speak in any known language.

CHAPTER II.—She decides to educate him. She finds him in an attitude of prayer, babbling an incoherent jargon.

CHAPTER III.—She finds a human skeleton and the skeleton of a dog. She finds a Bible and a silver box bearing the name of John Russell Chernock, with a date 2 years before her landing.

CHAPTER IV.—She concludes that her companion is an American and that he was cast ashore on the island when a child. Near the skeletons she finds two woman's rings and a dog collar.

CHAPTER V.—One of the rings bears an inscription "J. R. C. to M. P. T. Sept. 18, 1868."

CHAPTER VI.—Katharine Brenton was a highly specialized product of one of the greatest universities. Her writings on the sex problem had attracted wide attention. (The son of a multi-millionaire becomes infatuated with her, and she accedes to his proposition to put her theories in practice. With no other ceremony than a hand-clasp they go away together. A few days on his yacht reveals to her that the man only professed lofty ideals to possess her.

force!—but how long these would be operative in restraint she could not tell. She fancied not for long. What should she do then?

She saw the end coming when in his anger he resorted to drink, to drink which exploded the last vestige of his philosophy, however he had professed it. She was frightened beyond measure when she realized the depths to which he had sunk and to which, in spite of herself, he had dragged her. What further descent was before her? She did not even yet abandon that philosophy which had served her so ill. She clung to that with the morose tenacious pride because of its very weakness, but she loathed mankind. On that yacht he summed up for her the whole human race, and she hated him and it. To what sorry pass had a few weeks' practical experience reduced her?

She had begged and pleaded with him to alter the yacht's course, but he had sworn he would go farther south into those unknown seas and keep her there until she crawled to his feet. So the long hours dragged on. The inevitable rupture drew nearer. At last it came. In its details it was horrible, but there was in it a great relief after all.

CHAPTER VII.

The Joy of Freedom.

One night at dinner she had fled from him. He had been drinking more heavily than usual and was in an ugly mood. His handsome face was flushed, a savage frown overspread his brow. He had risen during the meal and with a coarse and unbecoming attempt to lay hands upon her—at last! She had broken away and darted into the nearest cabin, which happened to be his own. She had closed the door and turned the key against him before he realized what she was about. She stood within the little room, panting, enraged, fearful, yet ready to defend her all and almost glad the crisis had arrived. She could hear his drunken laugh outside the door.

"Why, you little fool!" he cried, "do you think I can't break that lock down in a moment? The ship's mine, every man on it's mine. I pay 'em. They do my bidding. I have you where I want you and I can have you when I please, now—or later."

Was it true? Could she appeal to the men? But what could she say? Although the world knew there was no hindrance between them, to the officers and men of the yacht she was his wife. They would not interfere. And if she declared the truth, she would put herself beyond the pale of their sympathies. Being merely stupid men, with conventional ideas about men, in that event they would be less apt to interfere than ever. It was true she could do nothing. She sank down on a hassock, clenching her hands.

As she sat, her eyes fell on a chest of drawers screwed against the bulkhead. The top contained various toilet articles of silver. Among them was a picture, the picture of a woman. It was not her picture. Moved by what impulse she did not stop to analyze, she rose and picked it up. The face she looked at was ineffably vulgar and common. Across the bottom was written in a scrawly unformed hand, "Your devoted wife." There was a date several years before that hour. Your devoted wife! She had been in that stateroom before; she had never seen that picture. He had only brought it out since the rupture between them.

And so while entering into this relationship with her, in compliance with principles and ideas which she at least regarded as sacred and holy, he had not been a free man! There was another woman to whom he had been bound. Oh, not by the marriage tie that she despised, but by the honor which was supposed to exist among thieves and which certainly should exist among philosophers. And such a woman! A cold fury filled her mind as she looked at the picture. The last completing touch had been given. To contempt and pity for him was added hatred. The combination transformed her. Instead of avoiding, she would seek him.

He was still in the cabin. She could hear him muttering thickly to himself. Impulsively she stepped to the door, turned the key in the lock, threw it open and entered the brilliantly lighted luxurious cabin. He had dismissed the attendants some time since with orders not to reappear unless he summoned them, and they were alone. There was no likelihood of any interruption whatsoever. The man, who was leaning back in his chair, bent forward when she opened the door. He laughed viciously. If she had reflected, she would have marveled at the change that a few weeks had wrought in one whom she had hitherto deemed worthy of her affection, but she had eyes and thought for nothing except the business in hand.

"So you've come out, have you?" he stammered triumphantly. "Come of your own free will! You've found out, have you, that I am master and you are coming to heel?"

He whistled to her derisively, whistled as if to a dog!

"Who is this?" asked the woman in a voice carefully suppressed, yet which shook with wrath.

She held the photograph in its heavy silver frame up before him. "That's my wife," he said equably, with no surprise or consternation. "We haven't lived together for some years," he went on with drunken good nature, "or I'd take you back to San Francisco and introduce you to her."

"Your wife!" exclaimed the woman in that same low, tense voice. "Then what am I?"

"My mistress," said the man, bluntly, throwing the last shred of concealment and decency to the winds, "and a damned obstreperous one at that," he went on.

Now, the woman believed in no Providence, but a trick got from her ancestry wrung the words from her lips.

Free Dyspepsia Sample

Sufferers from indigestion are waking up to the fact that peppermint lozenges, charcoal and "dyspepsia cures" are only makeshifts in the cure of so troublesome a complaint as chronic indigestion. What is required is something that will not only relieve but which will tone and train the digestive apparatus to again do its work normally, and this these simple remedies cannot do.

There is something more to the cure of indigestion than sweetening the breath, and yet a remedy that only contains digestive ingredients will not cure indigestion, as the basis of indigestion is poor bowel elimination, and that requires a scientific laxative. We know of no remedy that combines these requirements better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which has been sold for a quarter of a century.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a laxative tonic, a scientific blending of natural ingredients for the cure of constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sour stomach, sick headache and similar complaints. Its ingredients will so strengthen and tone the stomach and bowel muscles that they will again do their work naturally, and when that has been accomplished your trouble is over. Fannie Stuart, Staunton, Va., was a long-time sufferer, as was O. Tuck, Blackburn, Mo., and they both found their cure with this remedy. They became convinced that pills and tablets, salts, "dyspepsia cures," etc., were at best only temporary relief. They first accepted Dr. Caldwell's offer of a free sample bottle, which he willingly sends to anyone who forwards name and address. Later, having convinced themselves through the free sample, they bought Syrup Pepsin of their druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

A GOOD JOB FOR PLUMBING

is our best advertisement. That is why we attend to every order as if we expect to get the work of the whole city by it. The only part of the plumbing we don't do well is making out of bills. We invariably make them too small, so some people say. But they satisfy us and will you to when you come to pay them.

R. M. ARNOLD, Danville.

"Whom the gods destroy," ran the ancient phrase, "they first make mad." He rushed to his doom with blind fury.

"You needn't be jealous of her, my dear," he mumbled on. "I used to think I loved her and we were married, damned foolishness, as you might say. She can't hold a candle to you, if you are a little touched," he tepped his forehead impudently—"in the upper story."

And this man, this degraded thing, regarded her as a mad woman. There might be no God, but there was a devil and he stood before her. There might be no heaven, but there was a hell and she was in it.

"On second thoughts," he rambled on, "I couldn't introduce you to her. She aren't respectable and she is."

He stopped and poured himself another drink. "Respectable!" he laughed. "To hell with respectability. We know a better thing than that! 'Soul to soul, heart to heart, the union of equals without the trammels of conventional bonds for weaker beings.' Yes, that's what you said."

And she recognized with horror that he was quoting her own words.

"But it doesn't go, you see. It's all very well in theory, but it doesn't work out in practice. The world's got some ideas of its own. It's been holding 'em for a good many thousands of years and you can't change 'em. You belong to me now. To hell with your equality! You are nothing more nor less than my property, and mark you," he reached out a trembling finger and shook it at her, "your salvation is with me. If I cast you off, you go into the gutter."

She wondered vaguely how much more of this she could stand and live.

"But don't be afraid," he went on with a drunken attempt at reassurance, "you are too fine and too handsome, even if you are cracked, for that—yet, I'm glad to see you've come to your senses."

He rose heavily as he spoke and then his way around the table hand over hand. He approached her. She felt him do it. She shrank a little closer together, every muscle tense for action. She was no longer a woman; she was a human tigress and her philosophy was gone. He was too drunk to see it, too incapacitated to see it.

warning.

"That's right," he continued as he lurched nearer to her. "Stay right there. I'm coming to you as fast as I can and when I get close to you, we'll kiss, and—"

He was by her side now. He straightened himself up with a spasmodic effort, released his hold on the table and stretched out his arms toward her. And then she sprang at him. How she did it, she could never tell, but in some way her outstretched arms, grasping for his throat, struck him in the breast. Unsteady on his feet, he went down as if he had been shot. Such was the violence of his fall that the momentum carried her with him. She fell upon him with all her force. His head went back and struck the deck with a frightful crash. She herself was almost stunned by the violence of her own fall, although his body broke it.

She arose and stood over him for a minute and then she lifted her foot and brought it down upon him. He had said she was a mad woman and it was true. She was crazed by what she had heard, by the horror of the situation. She had not changed her dress for dinner that afternoon. She was wearing a pair of light boating shoes. It was lucky for him. If she had worn evening slippers with high, rigid heels, she would have mashed his face beyond recognition. As it was, she left horrid marks upon it. He lay absolutely motionless. She could see that he was still breathing and was not dead. If she had had a weapon she might have killed him in the fury and transport of her rage. This wretched philosopher! As no resistance came from him, she presently stopped, the feminine in her slowly rising to the fore.

She realized now that the irrevocable had happened; that there was no longer room for two of them on that ship. As the mists of passion cleared away, although the fire of rage still burned in her heart, her mind cleared also. She thought with such rapidity as she had never thought before.

First she picked up a cloak, threw it about her and went on deck. A cabin attendant was standing at the companionway, as was always the case, waiting a possible summons. She told him master was ill and did not wish to be disturbed. He did not even want the dinner things cleared away. He wanted to be left entirely alone until morning. The servant smiled slightly, she thought, in the light from the cabin skylight. She noticed that it was a moonless night, cloudy, overcast, for she could see no stars. She knew what that smile meant; that the men realized what sort of sickness his owner and master was liable to. She bade him tell the officer of the deck her message and then dismissed him.

Then she returned to the cabin and carefully locked the door. She glanced at the man as she did so. He lay just as he had lain before. She bent over him. He was still breathing, she noted with—was it regret? But she wasted no time over him. Time was the most precious of all things to her at that moment.

She had a clear and definite plan of action. She knew exactly what she intended to do and how she intended to do it. Fortunately the means of escape were at hand. They had passed one or two tiny islands during the day, mere treeless spots of sand or coral in the vast of the ocean, but prospects that others more inviting might be raised had caused the men to order the power tender to be got overboard. This was a good, substantial boat, 15 feet in length, broad-beamed and built for heavy seas, yet powerfully engine and capable of good speed. By his direction the tanks had been filled and everything overhauled so that it would be in readiness for use. The sea was very calm and the gentle air scarcely raised a ripple on its surface. To save the trouble of hoisting it aboard again, the tender had been left trailing astern at the end of a long line. It would be ready for instant use. She would escape in that. She knew how to run the motor and how to steer the boat. She had done it many a time.

Carrying her heavy boat cloak she entered her cabin, hastily packed her bag with what things she fancied she would need, returned to the table, took from it every scrap that was edible and portable; without much regard for the niceties she made it up in a heavy parcel which she tied with napkins. She remembered that the water tank in the launch had been filled, so that for a time at least she would lack nothing. Carrying bag and bundle in her hands and with the boat cloak over her arm and a straw hat tied on her head, after one long look at the men, she turned and went off and re-entered the starboard after stateroom, her own.

The boat's painter had been affixed to the starboard side of the yacht. She opened the stern window and looked out. She leaned far out and by great good fortune in the darkness caught the painter. The boat of course, was swinging to a long rope. She pulled at this line cautiously, although the effort taxed her strength to the utmost. Indeed, she seemed possessed of a fictitious strength for the time being also she never could have accomplished her hard task. But she managed to get the boat practically under the cabin at last. She fastened the painter to her bed, which was of brass and securely screwed to the floor. Then she cut off the line and tied the bundle of provisions and her bag and cloak to the end of it. These she dropped down into the boat. Among the petty articles was a sharp sailor's sheath knife fastened to her blouse. Then she climbed up on the port sill and essayed the dangerous descent herself. She was glad that she was a strong, athletic woman, used to trusting to her own skill and powers, for it was no easy task to slide down that rope and get into a boat trailing along beneath the counter of a yacht going perhaps 12 knots an hour. Fortunately the engine was well aft and the bow of the launch was high out of the water; else her weight would have pressed it down and the back wash from the yacht would perhaps have swamped the launch.

At any rate, she succeeded, although after she got her foot in the bows she slipped and fell. But that she fell straight aft upon the cloak and bundles she would have hurt herself severely. If she had not fallen that way, if she had pitched to the right or the left she would have gone overboard and that would have been the end, for she knew that she would have died rather than appeal to that ship for help. She was fearful that the noise of her fall might have attracted the attention of some one on the deck, but the poop of the yacht was usually deserted at night and it was unlikely that any one would be up there.

Scrambling to her feet, she drew her knife and severed the taut rope that held the launch to the yacht. It parted instantly. She was whirled backwards and sideways with a suddenness that again almost threw her out of the boat. For one agonizing moment the launch lay full in the broad beam of light that proceeded from the bright cabin window she had left. For one agonizing moment of suspense she hung there and then the swirl of the wave carried her into the darkness. (To be continued.)

Meeting at Turnersville

BRINGING MANY ERRING ONES INTO THE FOLD

Rev. W. J. Whitehead and Rev. W. J. Clarke, the latter an evangelist, are conducting a very successful protracted meeting with the Turnersville Christian church. Up to Tuesday night there were 23 additions to the church and the attendance at all services is exceptionally good.
The meeting will close on Sunday night and on Monday night July 25th at 8 P. M., Mr. Clarke will deliver his lecture on "My Ain Country." He is a native of New Zealand and brings an amusing and instructive message from this Switzerland of the Southern hemisphere. The lecture will be well worth hearing and the charge for admission will be only 25c for a double ticket; 25c single ticket and 10c for children.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surface. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from a reputable physician, as the damage they will do is too told to the need you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It is sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

AGAIN RENEWED.

Valuable Premiums Will Be Given For Individual Farm Exhibits

As never before in the history of a fair at Lexington, the interests of the agricultural community will be cared for at the big Blue Grass Fair, the week of August 8th to 13th. Last year this association offered valuable premiums for individual farm exhibits, including an array of different products produced on individual farms. So wide was the interest in this exhibit and so large the entries that the class will be again renewed and there is every prospect that it will have a still larger entry list.

As last year, the Kentucky Experiment Station will make a splendid exhibit of products grown on its excellent farm (this, however, not entering into competition with the exhibits of farmers of Central Kentucky), and also will bring to the fair grounds samples of grains and of various cereals which will prove both entertaining and instructive. The Fair Association will give a good deal of money for the show of small grains, such as wheat, oats, bluegrass seed, and there will also be handsome premiums for the display of corn. To this display of farm products will be given over the first floor of Floral Hall.

On the second floor the merchants of Lexington will make attractive displays, while on the third floor will be exhibited a large number of articles entered in the department of Women's Work and Table Linens. The entire Floral Hall will be more complete and more attractive than ever before. All farmers who have products in which they take pride should address Secretary Joust Shouse, at Lexington, asking for a catalogue of the Blue Grass Fair, setting forth details relative to the individual farm exhibit and the premiums offered for different grains.

ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPHS

Reproduced in Wonderful Five-Shoot Posters For Blue Grass Fair.

Probably the most attractive paper ever put out by a fair association is that which has been used this year to advertise the big Blue Grass Fair, which will be held at Lexington the week of August 8 to 13. The paper is all made from designs copyrighted by the Blue Grass Fair association, and the views used are taken from actual photographs made on the fair grounds in years past. The most prominent of these is a large five-sheet poster, showing a superb type of a Kentucky saddle horse. One of the best-known exhibitors in America is astride him, and the position of the horse and the pose of the rider are so natural, so graceful and so life-like as to attract immediate attention.
